NINE MISSING AS SHIPS COLLIDE

Budget Review Ordered by Ike; Mideast Brighter

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower said today it might be necessary to slow up federal spending on some projects in order to relieve inflationary pressures.

In his first news conference Feb. 6, Mr. Eisenhower said he since has ordered an intensive review of the budget to determine whether spending for certain projects could be slowed down to achieve a budget cut for fiscal 1958.

He did not identify the projects. His budget for fiscal 1958 calls for spending $71.8 billion.

Mr. Eisenhower said he did not anticipate being able to make any substantial cut which would cause material reduction of federal services or in any way affect the defense and national security of the nation.

Has Hearing Trouble

Mr. Eisenhower, coughing repeatedly, told reporters in his first meeting with them in a month that he was suffering today from a temporary difficulty with his hearing.

Frequently during the conference he asked reporters to speak louder and more distinctly.

He said he is feeling well and that actually his cough, which has hung on since inauguration, is better. But he said he now has developed a cold in the head which has affected his hearing.

He had plugs of cotton or gauze in each ear and his voice had a husky tone.

He said that, in view of the Middle East situation and the absence from the country of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Vice President Richard M. Nixon, it would be awkward for him to go to Arizona now in an effort to kick his cough and cold.

Discusses Other Topics

Other news highlights at the conference:

—He does not think there can be any substantial cuts in foreign aid. His budget for fiscal 1958 calls for $4.4 billion.

—He confirmed that he told King Saud of Saudi Arabia recently that Israel is here to stay as a nation. He said he has been consistent for years in his position that Israel is a historical fact and its problems must be dealt with like those of any other nation.

—He said the United States is prepared to use the Gulf of Aqaba and its gateway—the Straits of Tiran—as an open international waterway.

—He said the Middle East outlook is brighter, but there are still many problems which can come up.

—He said solution of preliminary phases of the difficulties between Egypt and Israel does not solve the underlying differences. The United Nations should direct its efforts toward these basic difficulties.

—There is no prospective federal vacancy in sight for Leonard W. Hall, former Republican national chairman. Mr. Eisenhower said that if he had a suitable post, no doubt Hall's name would come

House Approves Ike Doctrine

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House today stamped final and overwhelming congressional approval on President Eisenhower's Middle East resolution.

The measure gave the President substantially what he asked —

—Congressional support for use of U. S. troops if necessary to halt any Communist aggression in the Middle East, —And authorization for the President to spend up to $200 million in already appropriated funds to bolster Middle East economies and governments against Communist subversion.

Ike Endorses Pan American Games in 1959

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today strongly endorsed the proposed 1959 Pan American games as a step toward new hemispheric solidarity.

The President was asked at his news conference whether he agrees with a congressional move to eliminate a $5 million item in the budget to help Cleveland build a stadium for the games.

Without mentioning Cleveland directly, the President said he is, of course, in favor of the games. He said he believes they would do a great deal to further hemispheric solidarity. He said the American nations ought continually to be drawn closer together.

The President also said he had not heard that the $5 million stadium item is in danger.

A capital newsman asked whether the President would support a move to have the games held in Washington, D.C., which also wants a new stadium.

Mr. Eisenhower said he did not want to say, but he did not know who selected Cleveland in the first place.

Parked Cab Hit By Trailer-Truck

Slight damage resulted yesterday afternoon at 4:45 when a trailer-truck struck a parked cab belonging to the Monessen Taxi Co. near 12th street and Schoonmaker avenue, police said today.

The truck was operated by Walter Reiser, of Douglasville, and Mike Tomcanin, of 1004 Alexander avenue, Monessen, was driving the taxi.

The truck was trying to squeeze through a lane between cars parked on the left side of the street and the cab parked on the right side.

Eamon de Valera

Eamon de Valera Returning as Ireland Premier

DUBLIN (UP)—Ireland's aging American-born ex-Premier Eamon de Valera led in national election returns today and appeared certain of wresting control of the government from Premier John Costello.

With 23 seats in the 147-seat Dail (parliament) still to be decided, de Valera's Fianna Fail Party had clinched 68 seats. Costello's Fine Gale 32, Labor Party 10, Farmers 3, Republicans 1, Sinn Fein 3 and Ind'pendents 7.

Costello held power two years and eight months with a coalition. The Republican Party pulled out of the coalition and touched off Wednesday's elections.

The 74-year-old de Valera will return to head an Ireland staggering in its worst economic plight in years. Unemployment and emigration both are rising steadily.

Cash Registers Are Ransacked

For the second time in about three weeks, burglars ransacked cash registers at Emory's Bar at 1159 Schoonmaker avenue yesterday morning, Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka reported today.

This time they netted only $10. On the previous visit, $365 was missing.

Entrance was gained through a window leading to a rest room. The burglars forced a door leading to the bar. They ransacked two of four registers, getting $3 from one and $7 from the other.

Lt. Algie Link and Patrolman Peter Belavich are investigating. The first burglary has not yet been solved.

Stevenson Hits Bermuda Parley

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UP)—Democratic Party Leader Adlai Stevenson said Wednesday night he doubted that the forthcoming Bermuda conference between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan would restore Anglo-American friendship.

"I am afraid it will take much more than words, but I hope the increasing confidence will be bolstered by mutual concern for the opinions and interests of one another," Stevenson said.

Racketeer Says $500 Paid to Ex-Sheriff, Now Portland Mayor

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate investigators were told today that a Portland, Ore., gambler gave a $500 payoff to sheriff — now Mayor Terry D. Schrunk. They slapped an immediate contempt citation on the gambler for refusing to testify on the incident.

In rapid-fire developments before the special committee investigating labor - management racketeering:

—Self - confessed racketeer James B. Elkins testified that Clifford O. (Jimmy) Bennett, his partner in Portland's 8212 Club, reported that he made the $500 payment to Schrunk when the sheriff threatened to arrest all club customers on a raid.

—Bennett, in one of the most stubborn refusals seen recently before a congressional committee, refused to answer all questions about the incident. Resolving itself into an immediate open-door "executive" session, the committee voted to cite him for contempt of Congress by a 5 to 0 roll call vote.

Money Reported Missing

Elkins testified that his bookkeeper told him after the raid that $500 was missing from the $1,500 regularly advanced as "bankroll" for the club's gambling operations. He said he does not believe Bennett pocketed the money.

Bennett, a slick-haired youngish man, told the committee little other than that he now lives in Great Falls, Mont. He did not even state the grounds for his refusal to testify, although Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) referred to the constitutional protection of the Fifth Amendment.

Lie Test Given

The committee also was expected to disclose results of a lie-detector test given by the U.S. Secret Service Wednesday to Nate Zusman, operator of a Portland night club, the Desert Room.

Zusman demanded the test to back up his denial of testimony by "Big Helen" Hardy, a bawdy house "madam," who said he encouraged her to open a house of prostitution in Portland on a promise that Langley would not molest it. Zusman also denied "Big Helen's" assertion that he got $215 to $230 in fees for sending customers to her exclusive "call house."

The committee sent the conflicting testimony to the Justice Department for possible perjury prosecution. It did not say which of the two it believed.

The committee, meanwhile, was challenged by a high AFL-CIO official to reveal which companies it is investigating and which management officials it will summon for testimony.

The challenge was issued by William F. Schnitzler, AFL-CIO secretary - treasurer. He said Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) has slated the committee is

Fayette School Jointure Meeting

Although no contracts were signed, plans for another school jointure advanced at a meeting of six school districts last night in Brownsville.

The latest school jointure is expected to encompass Brownsville, West Brownsville and Brownsville, Redstone, Luzerne and Jefferson townships.

An agreement was reached that West Brownsville will be permitted to enter the jointure although located in Washington County. The other school districts are in Fayette County.

Principal topics of discussion last night were the costs of operation and representation on the board.

Donora Youths Buy Liquor for Minors

James Webb, 19, and Donald Little, 20, both of Donora, each were fined $10 and costs for buying liquor for minors last Saturday in Donora.

Appearing before Burgess Angust Chambon Tuesday, the pair admitted giving liquor to two 15-year olds. The latter pair will be turned over to Washington County Juvenile Court.

In another hearing, Harold Forster paid $10 and cost for striking a mail box concrete post in an accident in Donora Sunday.

FCC Rejects Trusteeship For TV Station

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Federal Communications Commission rejected Wednesday a proposal for a temporary trusteeship to construct and operate a new VHF Channel 4 television station at Irwin, Pa.

Matta Enterprises of Braddock, Pa., proposed the temporary authority pending a final grant of the channel.

Matta suggested the trusteeship be composed of the five applicants for the channel — Matta Enterprises; Television City, Inc., of McKeesport, Pa.; WCAE, Inc., of Wilkinsburg, Pa.; Wespen Television Co. and Irwin Community Television, both of Irwin.

Wespen opposed the move in a petition to the commission.

An FCC examiner favored award of Channel 4 to Television City, Inc., in an initial decision. The contest has been in progress for more than three years.

In denying Matta's petition, the commission took note of the opposition and said the move was unnecessary since the dispute has reached the final decision stage.

State Senator Hits Figure on Autos, Trucks

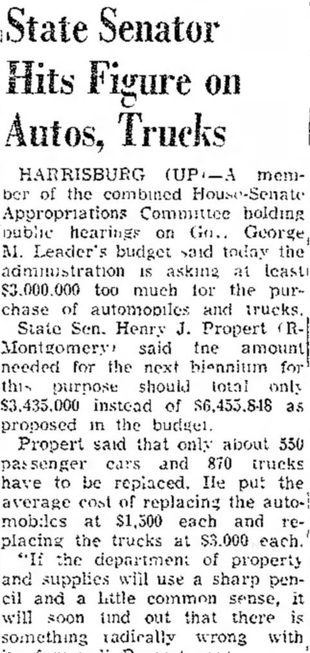
HARRISBURG (UP)—A member of the combined House-Senate Appropriations Committee holding public hearings on Gov. George M. Leader's budget said today the administration is asking at least $3,000,000 too much for the purchase of automobiles and trucks.

State Sen. Henry J. Propert (R-Montgomery) said the amount needed for the next biennium for this purpose should total only $3,435,000 instead of $6,455,848 as proposed in the budget.

Propert said that only about 550 passenger cars and 870 trucks have to be replaced. He put the average cost of replacing the automobiles at $1,500 each and replacing the trucks at $3,000 each.

"If the department of property and supplies will use a sharp pencil and a little common sense, it will soon find out that there is something radically wrong with its figures," Propert said.

"Evidently someone has slipped very badly on elementary arithmetic or else 'the buy-and-sell plan' isn't working the way the public has been lead to believe," Propert said.



'DOMESTIC DISCORD' — Mississippi's Gov. James Coleman sharply opposes the administration's controversial civil rights program by telling a House judiciary committee that the measure "will not be an aid to the Negro but will be a continuing source of ... tumult and domestic discord." The committee later postponed action on the program until next week.

Edward G. Bauer

Judge Bauer Tosses Hat in Judgeship Race

Judge Edward G. Bauer, Democrat, today formally announced he is a candidate for reelection to the Westmoreland County Common Pleas Court on both the Democratic and Republican tickets in the May 21 primary. He was first elected in 1947.

Now a Democrat, Judge Bauer served as a Republican member of the State Legislature in 1931 and 1932. He served as Democratic District Attorney of the County from 1941 to 1947, prior to being elected to the bench.

In announcing his candidacy for reelection, Judge Bauer stated, "I am running on my record of the past 10 years."

He is a native of the county, being born and raised in Penn Township. He was educated in Penn Township schools, graduated from Jeannette High School and received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1920 from Washington and Jefferson College.

Later, Judge Bauer received his LLB degree in law from the University of Pittsburgh in 1923, and was admitted to the bar in Pennsylvania in 1923. Subsequently he was admitted to practice before all the local courts in Westmoreland County and the Supreme and Superior courts of Pennsylvania and the United States federal courts.

Judge Bauer is a member of the American Bar Association, Penn-

Hudock Won't Run in Special Mayor Election

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Andrew J. Hudock, court-appointed mayor of Greensburg, said today he will not be a candidate in a special election next November to fill the position.

Hudock, a long-time member of the state police, was sworn in last week to fill the vacancy left by the death of Robert L. Potts until Dec. 31. The successful candidate in the special election will serve the remaining two years of Potts' term.

Hudock said he "will not seek election to the office of mayor at this time, although I am grateful to the court, the press and the public for the honor and confidence bestowed upon me."

"I shall carry out the duties of this office for the current year to the best of my ability and with the interest of the public in my heart," Hudock said.

59 Are Saved in Delaware River Explosion, Fire

NEW CASTLE, Del. (UP) — A U. S. Navy gasoline tender and a Liberian freighter collided at "The Graveyard of Ships" on the Delaware River today. Both ships immediately burst into flames with a terrific explosion.

Five hours later the tender Mission of San Francisco sank, blocking the main ship channel to Wilmington, Del., and Philadelphia. The freighter Elna II blazed for hours before the flames were brought under control by Coast Guard vessels and a Philadelphia fire boat. At 10:30 a.m. the Coast Guard reported that two-thirds of the channel had been cleared and ships were passing through one at a time "with caution."

The Coast Guard reported 59 survivors and listed an estimated nine missing, all of them from the Mission of San Francisco. The Mission carried 45 men and the Elna 23. Among the missing was the Mission's captain, William Allen of Houston, Tex.

The Mission did not carry a pilot because Allen was licensed for the Delaware River.

Explode On Impact

Both vessels exploded in a sheet of flame upon impact, rocking homes on both sides of the river and awakening persons in nearby Maryland.

The Mission was nearly cut in two by the impact. The missing men, all of them believed to be ship's officers, were asleep in the general area of the point of impact. The Mission is Navy-owned but operated by a civilian tanker corporation, and is manned by civilian merchant marine seamen.

Although the Coast Guard would not confirm that any of the missing were dead, Eugene McKenna, 33, Providence, R.I., said "everybody in the middle of the ship must have been killed."

William Bausch, of Miami, Fla., first assistant engineer of the Mission, said he was aroused from sleep by "a terrific explosion" which threw him from his bunk.

He said the passageway was "a mass of flames and smoke." Bausch said the collision cut the fire hoses and a few minutes later all surviving crewmen abandoned ship.

Alexander Karre, captain of the 4500-ton Elna, said he was proceeding south on the river when the northbound tender failed to acknowledge a signal and cut across his bow.

The freighter slammed into the tender and Karre, 62, Toronto, Canada, said he was knocked unconscious. The bow of the Elna caved in.

Clothilda Liik, 55, of Esthonia, chief stewardess aboard the Elna, was pinned in her bunk momen-

Fireman Relates His Story of Ship Collision

By ANTHONY GUZOWSKI
Fireman Aboard The Mission As Told To United Press

I was on the 8 to 12 watch and had just been relieved. I went to my quarters and was getting undressed to take a shower when we got hit.

I thought to myself 'we couldn't have made the dock yet because we were not supposed to dock until 3 a.m.

I looked out the porthole and didn't see anything. Then there was another hit and I was blown against my bunk.

I didn't know then that my back was hurt.

I looked around and saw a sheet of flame. I got nosy and ran out to the pump. Then I saw a big flame.

I said to my partner: 'We're hit, let's go.'

We made the deck and it looked like the crew was panicky. Then the 4 to 8 shift came up and (Gerald) Duffy (of Brooklyn, N.Y.) said 'Let's make it for the lifeboats.'

Duffy and I went to the boat and we had trouble with the grips. Finally they loosened and we got the boat over the side. When the lifeboat hit the water we lowered the ladder.

Twenty-eight of us got off the one boat. We left a few men on topside.

We figured our best chance was to get away. We rode for a while, maybe 10 minutes or more and a ship saw us and passed us by. I saw some other men in the fantail, but we were packed so tight in the boat and the flames were on the water that we couldn't reach them.

Blonde Appeals Rustling Term

TUNICA, Miss. (UP)— An attractive blonde today planned to appeal her conviction and sentence to three years in the state penitentiary on cattle-rustling charges.

An all-male jury deliberated one hour Wednesday, then found Alice Mills, 30, guilty of rustling cattle from a plantation where she worked.

Miss Mills was the only one of nine persons accused of operating a cattle theft ring to be brought to trial. Seven others pleaded guilty and will be sentenced later and one is still at large.

Hille Coleman, director of the Livestock Theft Bureau of the Mississippi Highway Patrol, said Miss Mills and the others stole 90 to 100 head of cattle from the Abbey-Leatherman plantation, where they worked.

County Democrats in Another Split; Kelley Fires Secretary

Another wide wedge has splintered the once solid Democratic machine in Westmoreland County and involves Congressman Augustine B. Kelley and his field secretary, James J. Kelley (no relation), of Hermine.

The latter Kelley was delivered an ultimatum by Rep. Kelley Tuesday to either resign as campaign manager for Attorney Joseph M. Loughran, an anti-organization candidate for County Common Pleas judge, or give up his job as Rep. Kelley's field secretary, a $2,700 a year position.

Kelley told The Daily Independent he has tendered his resignation to Rep. Kelley and will continue as manager of Loughran's campaign.

Kelley, who holds an approximate $8,000 a year position with the United Mine Workers in the Westmoreland County district, said Rep. Kelley had asked him to give up managing Loughran's campaign after pressure from two of Loughran's Democratic opponents for Common Pleas judge, incumbent Edward G. Bauer and Alexander Sculco, present District Attorney.

Following is the text of his resignation sent to Rep. Kelley in Washington, D. C., yesterday.

"In our telephone conversations of yesterday and today, you stated that you had received calls from Bauer and Sculco, and as a result, you would have to ask me for my resignation as your field secretary if I continue as campaign manager for Joseph M. Loughran for judge.

"I appreciate the pressure under which you are placed. Our relationship over a period of years has been most pleasant and I would do nothing to embarrass you.

"Consequently, I herewith tender my resignation as requested as I feel that Loughran should and will be the next judge of the Common Pleas Court of Westmoreland County."

Kelley, a former chairman of County Young Democrats, took a swipe at Chief County Detective A. B. "Buddy" Turner, long known as the "boss" of the powerful Democratic machine in the County. Kelley said:

"When I took on the assignment as campaign manager for Loughran, I knew I was getting into a political fight against "Buddy" Turner's organization. I have been engaged in politics before and I expected a contest this time.

"Nevertheless, I was shocked by the tactics of Bauer and Sculco who stooped so low as to pressure a demand for my resignation. But they have not pressured me out of the contest. I am determined to exercise my privilege as a citizen and to speak for the candidate of my choice. Loughran, a man the citizens of the county need on the bench."

Kelley's resignation is the

Brownsville Worker Is Awarded $149,388

James R. Russell, Jr., 33, of Brownsville, yesterday received one of the largest damage awards ever granted in Western Pennsylvania.

He was awarded $149,388 by a U. S. District Court jury in Pittsburgh. The jury deliberated 26 hours before reaching the verdict.

A former employe of the Monongahela Railway Co., Russell received the damage award to compensate for results of an accident on Feb. 21, 1955, in which he lost his left leg.

Russell was working for the railroad as a brakeman near Morgantown, W. Va., when he attempted to walk an approaching train of a detective switch, which would have caused derailment and probable disaster.

Russell, in the rush to warn the train's engineer, slipped under a moving car of the train and had his left leg severed.

Four subsequent operations in Morgantown and Pittsburgh hospitals have provided little relief from the painful injury, Russell stated. The cost of the operations and other medical expenses have mounted tremendously for his family, he added.

Since the accident, Russell has been able to work only 18 days for the railroad.

Married and a father, he said he has no definite plans for the future, except to hope to return to work some day.

The trial started Feb. 12 and continued through yesterday.

The House has already passed the doctrine once But the Senate modified it Rather than have further delay the administration said the Senate version is acceptable That assured rapid House action

However, as the two-month drive to get the doctrine through Congress drew to an end, a group of Democrats called on the administration to produce a positive, long-range Middle East policy They called the doctrine a stop-gap measure

House Votes on Ike Doctrine

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House planned today to give final congressional approval to the Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East.

House leaders predicted the doctrine would pass by about 369 to 60.

The House has already passed the doctrine once. But the Senate modified it. Rather than have further delay the administration said the Senate version is acceptable. That assured rapid House action.

However, as the two-month drive to get the doctrine through Congress drew to an end, a group of Democrats called on the administration to produce a positive, long-range Middle East policy. They called the doctrine a stop-gap measure.

Other congressional news:

Farm: Democratic farm leaders hoped to push a bill through the House to expand soil bank benefits to farmers in most sections of the country. They faced stiff opposition from Republicans who were backing a bill to extend soil bank subsidies to Midwest corn growers only. Both bills appeared headed for defeat.

Spending: House Republicans said the White House has given concrete evidence of its intentions to try to cut President Eisenhower's $71.8 billion budget. They cited a statement by Budget Director Percival F. Brundage that his office is taking a new look at the budget to seek possible cuts.

Scandal: Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif) said he may ask Congress to investigate scandal magazines that "prey upon private lives" of celebrities. Hillings said he was waiting to get the views of a California state Senate committee already investigating scandal magazines.

Loan: Congressmen of both parties expressed approval of President Eisenhower's recommendations to ease Britain's payment schedule on a $4.3 billion U.S. loan. Mr. Eisenhower asked Congress to allow Britain to postpone as many as seven annual payments of $130 million principal and interest.

Israel Turns Over Gaza Strip To UN Troops

By UNTED PRESS

Israel announced today it had surrendered authority in the Gaza Strip to the United Nations despite a growing threat that Egypt would demand control of the area.

Jerusalem Radio broadcast a proclamation by Col. Matityahu Peled, commander of Israeli forces in the Gaza Zone, turning over control to a UN police force in the first such action in history.

The bulk of the Israeli forces withdrew before dawn and only a handful of liaison troops remained to complete the last details. They are to be out before sundown.

In Cairo the semi-official Middle East news agency quoted a UN official as saying UN forces would take over administrative control of civilian agencies in the Gaza Strip at 7 p.m. (noon EST).

Evacuation of Sharm El Sheikh on the Gulf of Aqaba is set for Friday.

Israel Makes Appeal

The Israeli proclamation appealed to the 300,000 inhabitants of the Gaza Strip — 200,000 of them refugees from Palestine—to remain calm and keep public order.

Officials in Gaza were discussing the formation of an international regime for Gaza.

U.N. and Israeli officers were meeting today in Lydda, Israel, to discuss an economic "link" with Israel. The U.N. wanted rail connections with Haifa to handle refugees and supplies.

A Jerusalem broadcast heard in London said four civilians, including two Americans, had arrived in Gaza with the U.N. forces to work in the Gaza city administration. It mentioned no names.

The Israelis gave the U.N. custody Wednesday night of 300 Fedayeen commandos they had captured. There was no indication what the U.N. would do with them.

The proclamation said Israel had relinquished responsibility to the UNEF "alone" and it said UN forces would keep order and organize a civil administration "with the purpose of ensuring peace or a final settlement" for the Gaza Strip.

The proclamation was a reaffirmation of Israel's announcement to the world it was pulling out of the 25 by 5 mile strip in belief Egypt would never be allowed to regain control.

But Cairo dispatches indicated Egypt might demand its troops take over command of the Gaza Strip at any time — a demand that could touch off a new crisis if it were made official.

The Egyptian government newspaper Al Goumhouri said Egypt retained the right to order UNEF troops out of the Gaza Strip whenver it wanted to.

"No Promises"—U.S.

Informed sources in Cairo predicted earlier Egypt would make a strong demand and ask for a voice in the Gaza administration. Today Al Goumhouria said the UNEF had one function only—to take over the area preparatory to handing it back to Egypt.

Israel has steadfastly said there must not be such a return, that it could only mean further bloodshed. Israel maintained it attacked Egypt only to halt Egyptian attacks on Israel and to end the Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba.

Egypt was taking a less strong stand on the problem of free navigation of the Gulf of Aqaba. Informed sources in Cairo said the problem might be turned over to the International Court at The Hague.

Israel promised to withdraw on the "assumption" the big powers would see that the gulf leading to Israel's Port of Eilat, and bypassing the Suez Canal, would be kept free by the big powers of the world including the United States.

The United States has since insisted it made no promises. Only Wednesday U.S. Ambassador James Moose called on Syrian Premier Sabri Assali in Damascus and assured him the United States had made no promises.

tarily by a piece of steel from the ship. She was not injured, however.

Rescue operations were hampered by the darkness. A light rain and a few traces of sleet and snow fell during the night. The weather cleared, however, with daylight.

Joseph Martell, 47, Hillside Manor, Fall River, Mass., lookout on the bow of the Mission, said he saw "the other ship coming. We gave a blast and the other ship answered with a bell. There was a crash, an explosion, and when I looked I saw the back of my ship on fire. The next thing I knew I was up to my knees in water."

Alton Kennedy, of Houston, Tex., second assistant engineer on the Mission, said he was blown out of bed by the explosion. After finding his glasses and clothes, he said he went below to try and get the fire pumps started.

"I knew she broke into two," he said, "I had to get out."

Group to Study Highway Needs

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General Assembly has been asked to name a 14-member committee to survey the state Highways Department proposed building program with an eye toward Gov. George M. Leader's request for a $720,000,000 budget

A House resolution would have the Highways Committee chairmen in each chamber name seven members to a joint survey team. The inquiry would evaluate the building program, proposed federal aid and future highways' plans and report back to the Legislature for decisions on highways legislation.

The resolution was introduced by Reps. Stanley G. Stroup (R-Bedford) and Harry A. Naugle (R-Somerset).

On Dec. 13, Loughran, then an assistant District Attorney under Sculco, was ordered by Sculco to either give up his judgeship ambitions or leave the D. A.'s office. Loughran preferred the later and since then has formally announced his candidacy.

Loughran has said that he wants it clearly understood that he is not "bucking the organization. As far as I am concerned the issue of the primary campaign is going to be "Buddy" Turner and his dictatorship over the party."

Schnitzler, addressing a union meeting in Chicago Wednesday night, also criticized as "unwise" and "in poor taste" a charge by James B. Carey, an AFL-CIO vice president, that Teamster Union President Dave Beck was a "traitor" to the labor movement.

Teamster Vice President James Hoffa, also in Chicago, predicted Beck will make himself available to the committee for testimony either this month or next. Hoffa, reputedly No. 2 man in the powerful Teamsters Union, said he (Hoffa) also will appear before the committee and produce all subpenaed records "if subpenaed properly."

The committee has been seeking Beck, now in Europe, to testify on his personal finances and charges involving his biggest-in-the-nation union.

Additional services of requiem high mass will follow at 10 o'clock from St. Cajetan's R. C. Church, Monessen, with Rev. Nunzio Pirulli officiating. NIXONS SEE NEW STATE OF GHANA ARRIVE — Vice President and Mrs. Richard Nixon are greeted in Accra where they are to attend ceremonies marking the birth of the new state of Ghana, formerly Britain's Gold Coast colony. Kojo Botsio, minister of trade and labor, is greeting the Nixons.

Nixon Arrives In Liberia for 48-Hour Visit

MONROVIA, Liberia (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon arrives here today for a 48-hour visit in this East Africa nation—one of the surest friends the United States has on the "Dark Continent."

Coming from Africa's newest independent state, Ghana, Nixon will see here the results of 110 years of experience in self-government which the United States established with former slaves.

Nixon left Accra Ghana, today after participating in ceremonies marking the creation of that country as an independent nation.

In a news conference Wednesday night Nixon paid tribute to Britain for improving its former colony to a point where it could govern itself.

"If future events confirm present hopes, developments here will have a great moral effect on all colonial powers in preparing people for self-government," he said.

to mind. But there is nothing in the works at the present.

—The United States will continue to operate within the United Nations rather than attempting to stand on its own foreign policies and reducing American reliance on the U.N.

The President's discussion of federal spending came amid a growing move in Congress to slice the budget by several billion dollars. House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. said earlier this week he thought as much as $3 billion could be cut from the $71.8 billion budget.

Women Use Big PRR Station for Dormitory

NEW YORK (UP)—Seven women, ranging in age from 45 to 72, admitted to a judge Wednesday that they had been using the ladies' room in spacious Pennsylvania Station as a dormitory—some for as long as three months.

The women told their story in Manhattan Arrest Court after police arrested them for loitering in the sprawling rail terminal in midtown Manhattan.

One woman produced a bank book showing a balance of $1,406.32. Others had varying amounts of money. Two had no funds.

"This is the most unusual thing I've ever heard. Seven women hoboing in Pennsylvania Station!" exclaimed Magistrate Jack L. Nicoll, before whom the women were arraigned.

A welfare official described the case as "the most unique in my experience."

Railroad police, after observing the women for some time, made the arrests early Wednesday as the women were settling down for the night.

The arresting officers described the seven as "permanent" members of the Informal Residence Club, indicating that others also have been using the lounge as a dormitory.

Explaining their routine, the women nervously told Judge Nicoll they slept in the lounge from midnight to about 6 a.m., then would go out for breakfast, which usually was followed by window-shopping. Afternoons, they said, were devoted to odd jobs of seeking employment. If the weather was bad, they often would take cat-naps in the lounge. Occasionally, they would go to hotels to bathe.

Utility Asks Rate For Air Conditioners

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Manufacturers Light and Heat Co., Pittsburgh, has asked the Public Utility Commission for permission to use a new rate for gas-operated air conditioners.

The company wants to put into effect on one day's notice a 45 cent charge per thousand cubic feet, effective only during summer months.

Courtroom News Picture Taken; No One Knew

CLEVELAND (UP)—The Cleveland Press published a photograph Wednesday which it said "was taken to demonstrate that courtroom pictures can be taken . . .without interfering with the court."

The four-column picture was taken in the court room of Chief Justice Sam H. Silbert of Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court.

Press photographer Glenn Zahn took the shot with a high speed lens camera with silent shutter under normal illumination while holding the camera on his lap.

"No one in the courtroom saw the camera," Zahn said, "not even the man seated next to me."

Silbert said he did not know when the picture was taken nor that Zahn had carried a camera into the room.

The Press, a Scrips-Howard paper, has led opposition against Canon 35 of the Code of Judicial Ethics dealing with courtroom photography. The interpretation of the rule varies from judge to judge.

The newspaper said the picture was the first such shot taken by one of its photographers of a trial scene since Judge Joseph H. Silbert invoked contempt of court action against the Press in September, 1953.

28 Red Soldiers Drown in Elbe

BERLIN (UP)— At least 28 Soviet soldiers drowned last week in maneuvers on the Elbe River when an overloaded ferryboat capsized, it was reported today.

The West Berlin newspapr Dr Abend said the boat capsized near the town of Aken. It attributed its report to eyewitnesses. The paper said the bodies of 25 soldiers were recovered and eight others were missing and presumed dead.

State Senator Is Tax Evader

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Charges of failing to file federal income tax returns for 1953 and 1954 have been filed against state Sen. Theodore H. Schmidt (D-Allegheny).

U. S. Atty. D. Malcolm Anderson said Schmidt, 55, who was elected to the Senate in 1954 after serving six years in the House of Representatives, has since filed the returns and paid the $3,000 tax due, but is still liable to prosecution.

Anderson said a summons has been issued directing Schmidt, a lawyer, to appear before a U.S. Commissioner before March 20.

Leader Claims Need for 'Conflict of Interest' Law

State Employe Did Business With the State

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader said today that the disclosure that a York County man did business with the state while on the state payroll at $10,000 a year once more emphasized the need for a "conflict of interest" law in Pennsylvania.

The governor said the activities of Maurice B. Harris, York, probably would have come within the scope of the "conflict of interest" measure which the administration proposed earlier this year. The bill was introduced in the House and sent to the State Government Committee.

Harris, a Pork business associate of Supreme Court Justice Herbert B. Cohen, former state attorney general, dealt with the Commonwealth as a floor wax supplier and at the same time held the $10,000 a year post as a consultant in the Justice Department when Cohen headed the department.

Commenting on the case, the governor said at his news conference:

"This has been commonplace in Pennsylvania government for years. With 60,000 employes you are always going to have it until we spell out conflict of interest by law. That is exactly why we introduced a bill. There's no law on conflict of interest now. It is purely moral."

Asked if he would fire Harris if the facts as represented were borne out, the governor replied: "I don't know what I would do... I certainly don't think any state employe should be bidding on state contracts."

Newsmen told Leader his proposal for retention of the six-cent gasoline tax to finance the state's expanded highway program faced possible major hurdles in the Republican-controlled Legislature.

Up To Legislature

"If they can find ways of cutting it (the highway budget) without hurting essential services that's their business," he said. He added that he had outlined the "possible areas of curtailment" and it would be up to the lawmakers to decide in what categories they wanted cuts made. He said it would have to be either in federally-aided roads, which would mean a reduction in federal funds, on the state system itself or in aid to municipalities through refunds from the Motor License Fund.

"They will have to indicate where they want to cut back," the governor said.

Leader said he did not expect the federal government would make any quick move to take over the state's turnpike system by paying off outstanding bonds.

"I don't have any illusions that the federal government is going to give us a lot of money for a road that is pretty well paid off," he said. "I think they're waiting deliberately, five years from now there will be far less bonds."

Asked if he believed the federal government would wait until the turnpike was entirely paid off, the governor said he did not think federal authorities would delay that long.

Leo Guttman Is Kiwanis Speaker

Leo Guttman, of Charleroi, discussed the Hoover Commission at the Kiwanis Club held in the Slovak Home Tuesday evening. T W Read was program chairman.

President Charles Penwick presided and group singing was led by Harold Baker. Frederic Feldman, a member of the Monessen High School faculty, was a guest. John Talarico was introduced as a new member.

Plans were made to attend an inter-club meeting at Snowden Township.

A board of directors meeting was held after the regular session.

Sentenced to Prison For Local Burglary

Because of offenses committed in Monessen, Stephen J. Herman, of Brownsville, paroled in Washington County after serving 10 years in the penitentiary only last March, goes back into the penitentiary today.

Herman, 31, will begin serving a 3-6 year sentence imposed in Westmoreland County on charges of burglary and larceny and possession of tools.

He was arrested after he attempted to break into St. Mary's Greek Catholic Church at Second street and McKee avenue last December.

After sentencing in Westmoreland County, Herman was brought to Washington and lodged in the Washington County jail to await disposition of two burglary and larceny counts in that county. He was arrested in Washington by State Police in December, the two alleged charges concerning breaking and entering two service stations on Route 40 west of Washington.

The office of District Attorney Michael A. Hanna announced yesterday, however, that Herman would go to Western Penitentiary today to start serving the Westmoreland sentence and a detainer would be lodged at the penitentiary for future use against the prisoner.

Herman was first sentenced to prison by Judge Carl E. Gibson in 1946, a term of 17½ to 35 years for a long series of crimes, chiefly burglary and larceny. Herman waged a legal fight from prison, until his case finally came to the attention of the Civil Liberties Union which carried his appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Herman was finally paroled last year by Judge Roy I. Carson. At the time, Herman claimed he had a bad heart and underwent some treatment, but his freedom lasted only a little more than six months before he was in the toils of the law again.

Little Red Hen Must Be Irish; Lays Green Eggs

NEW ABANY, Ind. (UP)— A little red hen is tuning up for St. Patrick's Day. It lays a green egg almost every day.

John Hubbuch, 77, and his wife, Florence, 72, owners of the "new Hampshire Red" hen, said today the chicken never has laid anything but "turquoise green" eggs.

The green eggs have agricultural experts puzzled.

Gary East, the Hubbuch's county agent, thought it might be something the bird ate. But Mrs. Hubbuch said she fed her entire flock the same diet—"mash, cracked corn and whole corn."

Poultrymen at Purdue University said the only explanation they could give was the hen may have had a South American ancestor.

They said the araucana, a wild latin chicken, lays green eggs. But Mrs. Hubbuch said her chicken "looks like a New Hampshire Red."

Mrs. Hubbuch said the green eggs look like any others in the frying pan and "taste just like an ordaniary egg."

The problem of coloring Easter eggs also has been solved. Mrs. Hubbuch said.

"I'll leave them just like they are."

Evans, Stickler and Landsidle are among 22 persons under indictment by a Dauphin County grand jury on charges of criminal conspiracy in connection with an alleged plot to swindle the commission of almost $20,000,000 in contracts for mine filling work by Manu-Mine under the Northeastern Extension.

The contracts were subsequently cancelled on advice of the state Justice Department. The petition filed Wednesday asked appointment of a receiver pending disposition of suits filed earlier by the commission to recover some of the money.

West Penn Power said that any shares not purchased by its stockholders would be bought up by the parent company to fill the issue. Based on current market prices, the concern said, the stock would sell at between $48 to $53 a share. The SEC gave interested parties until March 18 to request a hearing on securities offering.

Doctor Refutes Claims Cost Of Medical Care Has Increased

(This is the last of three dispatches by last year's president of the American Medical Association examining misunderstandings between the public and the medical profession.)

By DR. ELMER HESS

"A hundred and sixty dollars for a stay in the hospital when I had my operation!" exclaims a housewife. "Seems to me medical costs are certainly going up!" . . . "My gall bladder cost me $1700," a businessman reports . . . and, "My doctor charged me $500 for an appendectomy!" exclaims a third person.

Hidden in these three comments are some clues to problems in the economic realm of medicine. And interestingly enough, these clues lead to some surprising conclusions.

The housewife who exclaimed about her hospital bill was reflecting an opinion that about one in four Americans hold — that such costs are spiraling rapidly. This view has caused enough concern in the medical profession that some probing has been going on to get the facts.

Do you really think it costs more to be sick today than it did 10 or 20 years ago? It's true. Americans are spending more for medical care—but they are spending more for almost every other item these days, too. The economy since the end of World War II has been an inflationary one.

But how do medical and hospital costs stack up in terms of prices for other commodities and services? Actually, the portion people spend for medical care hasn't changed much in 25 years, according to data from the U.S. Department of Commerce. The percentage spent for medical care has remained slightly more than 4 per cent — and the percentage spent for physicians' services has remained at the 1.2 per cent level for several years.

Translating these statistical percentages into practical terms, you can buy your medical care for a smaller percentage of your wages today than you could 20 years ago. The amount of medical cost a whole week's wages in 1935 to 1939 costs only about one-half a week's wages today. Despite much higher living costs, we still charge the same fees in our clinic we did 30 years ago.

For the first time, Americans are spending more for hospital care than they are for physician services, too. The physician's share of the "medical care dollar" declined from 33 cents in 1929 to 27.2 cents in 1955, whereas the hospital's share rose from 14 to 27.8 cents.

A Legitimate Complaint?

Does that mean the public has a legitimate complaint about rising hospital costs? Well, don't forget that hospital services are considerably expanded these days. Modern medicine calls for increasingly expensive diagnostic and therapeutic equipment—plus a larger crew of people to provide care. Hospitals have to pay higher wages today, just as businesses do. They are competing for help in an employes' market.

Furthermore, hospitals are more exposed to inflationary forces than are physicians. Prices for nearly every item a hospital must purchase—whether it be equipment or the services of personnel—have climbed in the past 10 years. It isn't likely these costs will level off until other prices level off correspondingy.

However, hospital stays are shorter today than they were in the past. The average stay now is 7 days compared to 20 days in 1937. Then you paid $8 per day; today you pay $20 per day. Figure it out yourself. Your hospital stay for the same illness in 1937 cost $160 while today it costs $140. Here's where you reap the benefits of medical progress, which reduce length of illnesses tremendously in many instances.

The good old days when hospitals never questioned where the money was coming from are gone. Today there are no fairy godfathers to pick up the checks for the hospital's deficit. Hospitals must operate in a business-like manner even though they are non-profit.

When that businessman told his friends his gall bladder cost $1,700 he may have been telling the truth. Or, he may have been indulging in a bit of exaggeration, just as one of my own patients was.

I was in the barber's chair one day, my face covered with a hot towel, when a man in the next chair began to talk about his recent hospital visit. He named a fee he had been charged for my services—a fee, I might add, that was $1200 more than I really had charged—and he even sounded somewhat proud of his bill! Then he went on to tell the barber how expensive medical care was and took the hospital apart for his charges. About this moment the barber took the towel off my face. Needless to say, my patient was surprised, and very much embarrassed to see me.

Bragging Misleading

Bragging a little about how much we pay for things is certainly a human trait. Probably more of us are guilty of it than we'd care to admit. But on occasions it can certainly give a completely erroneous picture of a situation. Of course, I think most doctors are quick to realize the way people feel about bills for medical and hospital care. Naturally they are reluctant to pay. They didn't ask to be sick. They are forced into buying an unwanted service. Forking out cash for an illness you resent hurts a lot more than paying for a new television set or some other wanted item. Furthermore, doctors know that once a patient is well, his gratitude for medical services fades rapidly.

That's why the American Medical Assn. has been encouraging all physicians to discuss fees with patients and to reach an understanding about the approximate costs before rendering extensive care. This is also the reason physicians are giving increasing attention to the business side of medicine. They are coming to realize that people resent erratic billing practices which doctors often carry on, and that mistakes in bills don't endear doctors to their patients. They know, too, that itemized medical bills are less likely to be misunderstood than the old-fashioned 'for professional services" type of doctor bill.

Another complaint the public sometimes airs about the medical profession is that the collection procedures used are poor. In the past a doctor generally has turned over that phase of his practice to his secretary or office girl. Now more and more doctors are realizing the importance of following up collections in a business like way, but using special consideration when necessary.

A doctor is entitled to a fair fee and I've found that most patients want to pay their own obligations. Occasionally they get financially ship-wrecked and it is in these cases that physicians and businessmen part company. Where the business man gets tough, the doctor is more inclined to say, "If you've got some reason for not making the payment, will you please come into the office and talk to me about it. We want to help you in any way we can."

More and more doctors are helping patients budget for big medical expenses, on the "time-pay" basis so widely used in America. And traditionally, the medical profession willingly takes care of those who can't pay.

But what about that third individual who said: "My doctor charged $500 for an appendectomy!" I know of one instance where a woman did get a bill for that amount for a simple appendectomy on her daughter. The woman was a widow, making her own way, and told me she just couldn't pay that amount. The usual fee for an appendectomy of that type in my part of the country was about $150. Well, I told the woman I'd talk to the doctor. He was a young man, with special surgical training.

"Doctor Hess," he told me, "$500 is what I charge for any operation. I feel my special training entitles me to a bigger charge for a comparable operation than other doctors get in this community."

Sauces Bring Out Flavor of Salmon

By EDITH M. BARBER

Throughout the year, but especially during the Lenten period, we make use of canned salmon and tuna. When these are dressed with savory sauces or combined with them for a casserole dish, they are often better liked than fish in fillet or whole form.

Edith Barber

To bring out the flavor, we often turn to such things as pickles or green olives. These also are an aid to texture, as is the chopped celery used in the salmon loaf recipe. Another good point about this loaf is that it can be mixed and placed in a loaf pan in the morning and baked just before dinnertime. A hot or cold sauce with a piquant flavor should be served with the loaf.

A salmon souffle is another suggestion for a main dish. In both of these recipes, tuna may replace the salmon but will need a little additional seasoning, as it does not have as individual a flavor as the salmon.

In preparing sauces, the liquid drained from the solid fish is a flavorable addition. Catsup or chili sauce are interesting additions to a sauce of this type. The final test is your own taste. A good rule to follow is to try every dish you prepare before you serve it at the table.

SALMON LOAF

2 1-pound cans salmon
2 cups soft bread crumbs
¾ cup chopped sweet cucumber pickles
3 eggs, lightly beaten
cup chopped celery
1 medium onion, chopped
½ cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish

Drain salmon, reserving liquid and bone. Flake. Combine with crumbs, ½ cup pickles, eggs, celery, onion, parsley, salt and pepper, and mix well. Press into greased 9 x 5 x 3 inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour. Unmold. Combine sour cream, horseradish and remaining chopped pickles and mix well. Serve over loaf. Garnish with additional pickles, if desired. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

SPECIAL SAUCE FOR SALMON LOAF

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup salmon liquor
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons catsup

Melt butter or margarine, stir in flour and salt, and when well blended, stir in salmon liquor and milk slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture thickens and boils. Stir in catsup, heat, and serve with salmon loaf.

PICKLES AND CELERY add piquancy and crisp texture to a delicious salmon loaf lavishly garnished with sour cream, horseradish and pickles.

Fluoridation Cause Follows Pattern

THE CAUSE of fluoridation of public water supplies as a health measure to reduce tooth decay in growing children seems to be following the customary pattern here. The pattern goes like this:

The subject is brought to community attention by public spirited citizens and organizations who have been convinced that fluoridation is beneficial and who want to see their own community enjoy its benefits. They have behind them the whole weight of recognized scientific opinion, including the unqualified endorsements of the medical and dental professions, and all the public health organizations, both private and governmental.

But immediately a very vocal opposition is heard from. Almost without exception, it comes from the same sources: chiropractors, nature healers, religious groups opposed to medication, health food faddists and the like. And they are armed to the teeth with "evidence" of their own which refutes everything which 25 years of scientific investigation has discovered and "proves" that fluoridation will bring mankind to an untimely end.

It is interesting to note that in the past almost these same groups have opposed compulsory vaccination for smallpox, the use of animals in medical research, and the use of aluminum cooking utensils. And only recently a pamphlet came to this desk which indicates that some of the opponents of fluoridation are also against Jews and Negroes.

In between the ardent advocates and the ardent opponents of fluoridation is another vastly larger group, the general public. And usually it is indifferent, at least at the start, about the whole thing. Let somebody else figure this out — don't bother us, it says in effect.

* * *

THIS is the way the pattern has developed in hundreds of communities, and it is the way it seems to be developing here.

We hope, however, that the public here quickly overcomes its indifference and that it will not postpone any longer than necessary the day when the children of this area, like those in 1,400 other communities in America, can have the lasting benefits of an important discovery in public health.

We are not much concerned about the vocal opposition — the more it propagandizes, the more obvious its quackery becomes.

The real opponent of fluoridation is public indifference, and we hope the committee that is being formed to promote fluoridation here will recognize this "enemy" and come to grips with it promptly.

Dying on the Vine

MONESSEN, which has had a one-sided political life for many years, is in real danger now of actually being reduced to the status of a one-party city. With only ten days to go before nominating petitions must be filed, not a single Republican has appeared as a candidate for any of the local offices at stake this year.

Regardless of whether the reader is a Democrat or a Republican, as an American we think he will agree with us that this is a sorry state of affairs. This surely is no way to practice the democracy which has been put in our hands at such appalling sacrifice over the years.

The Republican voters, of course, should be most ashamed. To be sure, there are only about 1,200 of them in the city and they are outnumbered by Democrats more than seven to one. But since when have real Americans quit fighting and working for something in which they believe because they are outnumbered?

Most ashamed of all, we think, should be those men and women who have sought and accepted positions on the Republican county committee in their precincts. For it is their particular responsibility to see to it that their party functions as it is supposed to function and to do something when it doesn't.

The Independent is not concerned with the fortunes of political parties as such, especially not with their internal operations. But we are concerned that the people of this community should have the proven advantages of the two-party system. They can't if the local Republicans insist on dying on the vine.

The utility firms have three perennial worries—woodpeckers, kite-flyers and politicians.

They are talking about transferring the Dodgers from Brooklyn to Los Angeles, but nothing has been said about the bridge.

U. S. Expert Didn't Know U. S. Friend

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The State Department deftly censored it from the record released to the press, but Ambassador Henry Byroade admitted to senators recently that he never heard of one of America's best friends in the Middle East, Prime Minister Bourguiba of Tunisia.

Mr. Pearson

Byroade was formerly Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Middle Eastern affairs, then Ambassador to Egypt. He is supposed to know everything about the Middle East, and for that reason, was flown from his new post in South Africa to testify before the Senate Foreign Relations-Armed Services Committee on President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat, asked the question about Prime Minister Bourguiba. But Byroade didn't know who he was.

"You were Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern, South Asian, and African affairs, were you not?" asked Humphrey incredulously.

"Yes sir," said Byroade.

"You mean to tell this committee you don't know of Prime Minister Bourguiba?" snapped the Senator.

Byroade acknowledged that he had not heard of Bourguiba.

"I cannot understand it," Humphrey shook his head. "He is one of the most prominent leaders and one of this country's best friends in the area that was under your jurisdiction."

Byroade's amazing confession was made behind closed doors. Before the transcript was made public, the State Department carefully censored this telltale admission out of the record.

Merry-Go-Round

When Ike heard that John Foster Dulles had delayed 10 days without answering a letter from Sen. Lyndon Johnson on Israeli sanctions, he bawled Dulles out as a Marine Corps sergeant dresses down a Parris Island recruit. That was why Dulles so hastily sent a reply by hand to Johnson and leaked to the press the fact that the letter was en route. Johnson in turn was so irked at the delay he went off to the Senate gym for a rubdown, refused to receive the letter . . . Senator Neuberger of Oregon, in his newsletter to constituents, told how Ike ordered the table at the inauguration, then added: "Alfred E. Smith was wet and unashamed. Herbert Hoover was dry and proud of it." . . . Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer now has on its board of directors Louis Johnson, ex-Secretary of Defense; John Sullivan, ex-Secretary of the Navy; and Frank Pace, ex-Secretary of the Army. Wonder if they're making moves or going to fight? . . . Dave Beck, now ducking a Senate subpoena in Europe, is supposed to set an example to students and educators in Washington State. He's chairman of the trustees of the University of Washington . . . Ike's new Secretary of the Navy is a trustee of the University of Pennsylvania. As he was being promoted, the ex-president of the University of Pennsylvania was being demoted. Harold Stassen was required to put his disarmament activities under the jealous, sometimes bungling aegis of John Foster Dulles.

Burnt-up Envoy

Transatlantic cables buzzed when this column announced that Freddy Alger, fired as U. S. Ambassador to Belgium, was sore at Postmaster General Summerfield for his retirement and was coming back to upset Summerfield's political hold on Michigan.

The truth is that Alger, a good campaigner, came within a few thousand votes of defeating popular Gov. "Soapy" Williams in 1952 and Summerfield, plus friends, was worried that Freddy might run against Homer Ferguson in the GOP primary in 1954 and beat him. To protect Ferguson it was arranged to make Alger Ambassador to Belgium.

Irony was that Ferguson got beat anyway — by a Democrat, Big Pat McNamara of Detroit took him to the cleaners and has been one of the most outspoken members of the Senate since.

Now that Ferguson is safely retired for life to the Military Court of Appeals, Freddy Alger has served the purpose of his political exile in Belgium and can come home — even though he doesn't want to. However, he's coming home with blood in his eye at being ousted, and it may well be that he'll run against Pat McNamara in 1960.

Voters More Independent

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

A report on the attitudes and votes of a nation-wide sample of 2,000 adults, prepared by the University of Michigan Research Center, yields some fresh political insight.

Much of the evidence which comes from this poll begins to call into question one of the most common interpretations of the 1956 election. That interpretation was that if the Republicans couldn't win Congress when the country was giving more than a 9,000,000 majority to President Eisenhower, they haven't a pinball gambler's chance of regaining Congress next year when Mr. Eisenhower will not be on the ticket.

Mr. Drummond

This is the familiar post - 1956 thesis: it is an obvious and easy one and I do not lightly put it aside particularly when you bear in mind that in 1958 there will be only 11 Democratic Senate seats at stake compared with 21 Republican Senate seats — and a higher percentage of Republican seats will be in doubtful territory.

Away from Blocs

But this Michigan University study adds new insight into the behavior of the voters last fall. It underlines these facts:

That the trend is steadily away from bloc voting.

That the electorate in every part of the country is more malleable than it has been in many years. The Republicans have been gaining steadily among skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled working families, while the Democrats picked up strength last year among farmers and upper-income groups.

That, while voters identifying themselves as Democrats continue to outnumber Republicans by more than 3-to-2, a 2-to-1 majority feels that the Republican party more closely reflects their views on foreign policy.

This last point seems to me particularly significant. If the nation favors the Republican party 2-to-1 on foreign policy and if foreign policy is the dominant issue at the time of next year's congressional elections, as seems probable, the possibility of the Republicans regaining Congress must be considered within reach.

The prospect of this happening would be furthered if the majority of the Republicans in the House and Senate establish themselves as strong supporters of the President while the Democrats, especially in the Senate, drift into pretty regular opposition.

This is what is happening thus far on the Middle East resolution. It was passed by an overwhelming bi-partisan vote in the House. But on the first critical test in the Senate, namely, the effort of Sen. Richard Russell, D., of Ga., to strike the economic aid clause from the Eisenhower Doctrine, 28 Democrats went into opposition to the President while he lost the support of only five Republicans.

If the Michigan University survey research center is right in reporting a 2-to-1 majority for the President's foreign policy — and these polls are more scientific in measuring attitudes than in predicting how people will vote — then this solid Republican senatorial backing of the Eisenhower Doctrine may help put the party in an advantageous position for the congressional elections next fall.

(Since this column was received, the Senate has voted by 72 to 19 in favor of the President's Middle East program. Supporting the President were 32 Republicans and 40 Democrats. In the opposition were 18 Democrats and three Republicans.)

Ike Gains with Labor

The Michigan poll shows how both parties broke through bloc voting habits. Adlai Stevenson got 13 per cent more of the professional, business and managerial groups than President Truman did in 1948. He gained moderately among white collar workers. In all other labor groups President Eisenhower's strength continued to go up as did his popularity among voters with high school and grade school education with whom the Democrats used to be top choice.

What impresses me most of all is the malleability of the electorate. Take Hudson County (New Jersey). Nobody can remember when it last elected a Republican congressman. It elected a Republican congressman last fall and came within 24 votes of electing two. On the other hand Maine gave the Democrats a congressman and came within an arm's length of giving them two.

There are about 900,000 more registered Democrats than registered Republicans in California, but they are so unimpressed by party labels that again last year they elected only one statewide Democratic office-holder, the Attorney General.

Neither party can take the voter for granted.

Double Standard in Nightgown Purchases

By MARGARET LATROBE

How would your husband react if you went shopping and bought yourself a new nightgown priced $69.50?

Exactly! He wouldn't wait for the white-coated attendants to trundle you off. "Woman," he'd yell, ". . . begone! I can't stand your extravagance another minute!"

Mrs. Latrobe

Yet if he bought you one of these items for Christmas . . . selected the pretty pale blue job himself in one of those Men Shoppers Only sections of the department store . . . "What extravagance? It's my money, isn't it? You're my wife, aren't you?"

The other day I admired a coat my friend was wearing. "Like it?" she beamed. "This is my Christmas nightgown, so to speak. Charlie got loose in one of those 'Let-us - help - you - select - gifts - for-your - wife' places, and brother, did he go berserk!"

The dear man meant so well, too. As did the store. Charlie wanted to give his spouse something she would like. And who could be of more help than two of those pretty salesgirls, hm?

By contrast, Charlie was almost niggardly in spending less than $100 at a time like that in a place like that. Gee, look at the mink scarves, $200 bottles of perfume and maribou jackets he could have fallen for.

The blue nightie may have been a thing of beauty, but its joy forever was shortlived. Charlie's wife opened the package, and as she noted hand-stitched seams, real lace, and silken texture, her face fell with each discovery.

"How much was it?" she demanded, fingering the "Import from Italy" tag. Charlie was hurt. On Christmas morning, a crass discussion of money, "How much?" she hammered away.

Just like a woman — unfeeling, impossible creatures! That pretty brunette had assured him any woman on earth would love a gift like that — and here she was yipping about the price.

"How much?" So he told her, still thinking she would be pleased about that real lace. Women being unpredictable, she was, instead, horrified. Charlie's wife marched that nightgown straight back to the store, bought a coat (on sale) and pocketed five dollars in change.

Had she bought herself one of those blue satin splendors she'd have heard — "You crazy, or what?" Since Charlie did the buying . . . "Well, that's women for you!"

The Lighter Side—

Florida Now Improving Underwater Scenery

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) —What hath Florida wrought now?

An underwater miracle, thath's what it hath. "The lure of the deep" was only a phrase before. Now it means something.

Florida, you may recall, is the place where a real estate man is undertaking to air-condition the outdoors — by putting big air-conditioning units in the palm trees of a three-acre plot so sitters-down may bench themselves in blessed coolth in midsummer.

It is the place that has manicured the face-lifted and clothes-horsed a lot of swampland and other ugly and mangy acreage into chorus-line comeliness.

Underwater Sophia

Having thus taken care of land and air, it naturally has moved into the business of improving the finny deep. What it is doing underwater is perhaps characteristic. Something old has been added. Sex. This is cold sex, but it is permanent.

The idea, majestic in its simplicity, is this: Put Sophia Loren forever underwater in your swimming pool. In sculptured mermaid form, of course. Miss Loren is an Italian movie actress who is heavily endowed even without the addition of a mermaid's tail.

The noble notion of having her in the swim with you popped out of the brain of Col. Terrell J. Murell, a builder of cooperative apartment skyscrapers. It is a notion that takes some money as well as some doing.

Colonel Murell has commissioned an Italian sculptor, Franco Mosti Echevarria, to sculpt three lifesize marble mermaids, modeled after Miss Loren, to haunt the depths of just one private swimming pool. This pool is to go with his latest luxury apartment project (in Fort Lauderdale).

No Sleeping In Deep

He conceived the marble mermaid idea while a military commander in World War II in Italy, where, it says here in the blurb I'm reading, "He acquired a taste for Italian statuary."

He believes the resident owners of his building will be "people who appreciate the esthetic and humorous aspects of the figures." They'll also be people who are exquisitely heeled. To give you an idea what kind of joint this is, you have your choice of either of two penthouse suites for only $250,000.

Some years back, I attended, at Silver Springs, Fla., the premier of a Jane Russell movie called "Underwater." The audience, screen, and projector all went under the clear spring water for the show. But, as I remember, only females looked at the movie.

For standing there in person, imported fresh from Hollywood, was an unknown blonde named, inquirers learned, Jayne Mansfield. She didn't remain unknown for long. She became known almost immediately after putting on a swim suit.

And so it seems safe to predict one thing about underwater swimmers in the colonel's new swimming pool. Nobody'll be asleep in the deep.

Behind The News—

Nasser May Regret Seizing Suez Canal

By CHARLES M. McCANN

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt may be very sorry some day that he seized control of the Suez Canal.

There are strong indications that Suez, long the world's most important waterway, may never regain the importance it held before Nasser nationalized it and then blocked it because of the Israeli - British-French invasion.

Mr. McCann

Nasser's action made it alarmingly clear that a great part of the world's supply of oil, the life blood of modern industry, was at the mercy of one man.

Construction of gigantic tankers, which would carry Middle Eastern oil around the Cape of Good Hope at the southern tip of Africa, instead of through the canal has been started.

Direct To Sea

But in addition, plans are being worked out by interested governments and commercial interests to build pipelines which would take oil direct to the Mediterranean Sea and thus by-pass Suez.

A new development is that France has intensified exploration of what appear to be enormously valuable oil fields in the Sahara Desert region of Algeria, at the western end of the Mediterranean.

American, British and Dutch interests also are exploring big oil deposits in Libya, which adjoins Algeria on the east.

Egypt has been hit hard by Nasser's seizure and closure of the canal.

Of course, Egypt's fellow Arab nations, Saudi Arabia and Iraq, also have been hurt painfully by the curtailment of their oil shipments.

Important Iraq Project

The most important pipeline project now under consideration is one that would take Iraqi oil to the Turkish port of Iskenderun on the Mediterranean.

Iraq's oil flow was cut because Syrian guerrillas cut the pipeline which carried its output to the Mediterranean.

The possibility of sending Iranian oil through an extension of this pipeline also is under consideration.

A pipeline, smaller but nevertheless potentially important, is planned to run through Israel from the port of Elath, on an arm of the Red Sea, to the Mediterranean.

Nasser has good reason now to ask himself whether he really was so smart in taking his dramatic action.

Woman's Club Members in Bus Trip to Pittsburgh

Once a year members of Monessen Woman's Club spend a day visiting some point of interest and yesterday a party of 40 women traveled to Pittsburgh and spent the day at Beck's Charter Oaks on Greentree road.

Boarding a chartered bus at the City Terminal at 9 o'clock the women started a full day of activity, which was arranged by Mrs. Albert Snyder, who planned the trip. Mrs. David Lewis was in charge of tickets and Mrs. Michael Duda arranged for the luncheon.

Upon their arrival the women gathered in a large meeting room at the historic Manor House which was said to have been built by a nephew of Napoleon.

Business Meet

Mrs. Richard M. Bow, club president, conducted a business meeting and routine reports were heard.

Mrs. Donald C Duvall reported that plans are nearing completion for the spring bridge party to be held at the Monongahela Country Club on April 22, the day after Easter. Invitations have been issued to valley club women to join in this social and fund raising event. There will be prizes and refreshments. A large committee is assisting with the arrangements.

Announcement was made concerning the next meeting on April 3, at the Civic Center. The program will be presented by Mrs. Arthur Dubinsky, who will discuss "Our Life in the Peacetime." Mrs. Dubinsky and her husband, who is in the armed forces made their home there for some time. Mrs. Dubinsky is the daughter of a club member, Mrs. Paul Yeaton.

Plan Election

Also at the April 3 session there will be the election of new officers and election of new members. Donations are to be taken to the meeting to be sent to the Westmoreland County Home. These should include magazines, cards and games. Hostesses will be Mrs. James A. Hutchison, Mrs. Milsom Jenion, Mrs. R. Arlington Johnston, Mrs. Steven Monick, Mrs. W. P. Miller and Mrs. Robert McKelvie, Sr. Mrs. Robert Swaney will arrange the special music.

After the meeting the party went to the Carriage House, which is now a restaurant. Luncheon was served in the main dining room and the women visited several display rooms arranged in the downstairs of the building.

After luncheon the conducted tour was started and the women returned to Manor House to view all the displays. The house was originally a four room cottage, but it has been enlarged to include 15 rooms. These are furnished and appointed in a provincial or period motif.

Special Displays

The next stop was the barn, which is intact including the loft. Here there are complete living rooms, dining rooms and bed rooms arranged for display and all appointments and accessories were in keeping with the furnishings.

The final stop was the Contemporary building which displays a modern line of home furnishings and accessories including a very large carpeting display. Emphasis throughout the display was placed on the lamps, copper and brass ware, all of unusual fashion.

St. Nicholas Sisterhood in Routine Meet

The Ladies Sisterhood of St Nicholas Ukrainian Church held the regular meeting on Sunday evening in the church hall and a Presidents social hour was highlighted.

The Rev. Michael Yarosh gave the opening prayer and President Anastasia Kirsky was in charge of the business session. Routine reports were given by Mary Bodon, secretary and Mrs. Anna Mahar, treasurer.

Plans were made for a bake sale which will be held in the church hall on March 17 with Mrs. Mary Gulbordanche, acting as chairman.

Father Yarosh asked the women to attend confession and Holy Communion in a body and the date will be announced.

During the social session that followed luncheon was served.

Mrs. Rose Sulsum will be chairman for the April meeting and her aides are Mrs. Eva Salak, Mrs. Mary Sona, Mrs. Anna Solan, Mrs. Eva Sisko and Mrs. Mary Sisko.

Fire Auxiliary Holds Meeting And Social

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Monessen Volunteer Fire Department and Relief Association met last night in the City Building. Mrs. Roberta Wiles was acting president in the absence of Mrs. Kathryn Kunsa.

After the pledge of allegiance and Lord's Prayer there were reports and roll call by Mrs. Dorothy Gaydos, secretary and Mrs. Shirley Marino, treasurer. Mrs. Lucy Kasper gave the financial secretary's report.

Thank you cards were received from members who were remembered by the auxiliary during recent illnesses.

The special prize was won by Mary Guibourdanche and the "ring" was won by Norma DeMatteo.

Mrs. Gaydos reported on a successful fund raising project and future projects were planned.

A St. Patrick Day theme was used in the appointments and serving were Mrs. Elizabeth Gladys, chairman, Mrs. Sadie Brownais, Mrs. Maude Ralston and Mrs. Alice Horan.

The next session is scheduled for April 2.

Rushing Season Opens Last Night for Beta Sigma Phi

The rushing season began last night at a meeting held by the Eta Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at the Civic Center with Mrs. Jack Sonafelt in charge.

The members had several of the rushees as guests and an explanation was given of the rushing season, which is held each year in March. Beta Sigma Phi is an international organization created for young women interested in promoting a cultural and social program. It was formed by Walter W. Ross in Abilene, Kansas on April 30, 1931 and is a non-profit corporation. It maintains a contract with Mr. Ross, who handles all of the national business affairs. The motto of the organization is "Life, Learning and Friendship" and there are now 4,500 chapters with 120,000 active members in the sorority.

Since all of the rushees could not attend last night's session it was decided to arrange a party in their honor for March 24 and it will be held at the home of Mrs. Stephen Major.

Mrs. Sonafelt conducted the business session and read a letter from the Junior Woman's Club asking the chapter to cooperate in the new Civic Betterment program.

An invitation was received to attend the birthday meeting of the Monessen Education Association on April 4 at the High School.

The nominating committee presented a slate of officers for next year and the election was scheduled for the next meeting.

The cultural program was arranged by Mrs. Major, who gave a resume of the activities of the sorority as a national and local organization.

St. Mary Ladies Plan Frolic

The St. Mary's Ladies Club met on Tuesday evening at the church hall following the recitation of the rosary in the church. Mrs. Agnes Popovich, president, opened the meeting with the salute to the flag. The session was highlighted by the discussion of plans for future activities including a Summer Frolic.

John Kossar, president of the congregation, thanked the members for the courtesy dinner served recently to all new and retiring officers. He also asked continued cooperation in all future projects.

Reports were given by Ann Mahalko, treasurer and Gloria Mahalko, financial secretary.

New Members

Two new members, Agnes Mahalko and Herminie Gernot were welcomed into the club.

The frolic was planned for June and Mrs. Popovich will be the chairman. Details will be announced following the committee sessions with church officers and club groups.

A pirohi sale will be held March 20 and orders will be sold to take out if given to Bertha Patrick and Mrs. Popovich. The committee in charge will include Anna Roscoe, Sue Sowko, Irene Skoczlas, Helen Gido, Anna Havran, Anna Mahalko and Helen Sivak.

Plan Banquet

A family day banquet will be held on May 19 instead of the usual Mother's Day affair, which is held by the club members. Mrs. Michael Selestak has been named chairman and she will be assisted by Mrs. Anna Burdock, Mrs. Anna Beres, Mrs. Anna Kovelsky, Mrs. Helen Tweardy, Mrs. Helen Nemoseck, Mrs. Helen Mayernick, Mrs Alma Cekola, Mrs. Margaret Komar, Mrs. Mary Selestak, Mrs Popovich, Mrs. Mary Desko, Mrs Mary Kosh, Mrs. Alice Fordanish, Mrs. Gloria Mahalko, Mrs. Mary Dzatko, Mrs. Irene Skoczlas, Mrs. Mary Mahalik, Mrs. Anna Spiegelberg, Mrs. Hermine Gernot, Mrs. Agnes Mahalko and, Mrs. Anna Lazar.

Social Hour

Mrs. Helen Gido won the special award. Receiving gift handkerchiefs for their birthday anniversaries were Mrs. Helen Sivak, Mrs. Mary Pinasko, Mrs Mary Beresh, Mrs Mary Mahalik, Mrs. Mary Skira and Mrs. Anna Kritsky.

The April lunch committee will have Bertha Patrick as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Mary Curran, Mrs. Barbara Bielfeld, Mrs Sophie Turanin, Mrs. Mary Tomeanin, Mrs. Lena Tweardy, Mrs Mary Twardy, Mrs. Irene Kritsky and Mrs. Rosella Kiseda.

Luncheon was then served by a danish. Games were played and winning prizes were Mrs. Anna Burdock and Mrs. Mary Gnora.

ON THE BALL

By ALLEN KLINE

City League to Stage Kadis Benefit

The Monessen School Board has okayed a City Basketball League request for the Greyhound gym on March 15. A triple-header program is planned for that night as a benefit for Richard Kadis, the injured Geneva College football player. There will be no rental fee for the gym, meaning that all receipts will go into the Kadis Fund . . . On that subject, Vernon Junior High athletes have been promoting events the past couple of days for Kadis. They hope to raise at least $50 . . . When Centerville Junior High won the Section 4 title recently, it marked the first time that the Little Wildcats had ever won a league crown.

* * *

Monessen High football coach Armand Niccolai refers to the 1957 schedule as "the ball busters." The Greyhounds will tackle ten straight double-A opponents: Windber, Johnstown, Hempfield, Uniontown, Duquesne, Donora, Monongahela, Charleroi, Redstone and Brownsville . . . Incidentally the MHS sports program this year figures to be a financial success even though the Greyhounds are not winning any titles. Football showed its biggest profit in years, we are told . . . The Pittsburgh Steelers will move their headquarters to the Roosevelt Hotel on March 15.

Charleroi Gets 2330 Tix for Tourney

Charleroi received 2330 tickets in advance for last night's game with Derry Twp. . . . Incidentally the WPIAL Basketball Committee limits contending schools to 530 reserved seats per game. However the schools may divide their remaining quota between adult general admission and student tickets as they see fit. Charleroi, for example, ordered 1200 general admission tickets and 600 student tickets. In McKeesport, school authorities asked for 1,000 student ducats and 800 general admission . . . As the tourney wears on, the demand for tickets will increase. The semi-finals and finals are always complete sell-outs.

* * *

That was certainly an interesting scene at the Carroll Twp. Junior High sports banquet the other night. On hand were officials and coaches from Donora, Monongahela and Charleroi high schools. Reason: Carroll has no high school of its own so the youngsters may pick out a school of their choice. Naturally the Carroll athletes are welcome at any of the above-mentioned schools . . . Two McKeesport High cagers have been picked on the Section 6 all-star team selected by coaches. They are Larry Van Eman and Bill Pryor. Completing the starting all-star array are Bill Soffa, Duquesne, Bob Clemens, Munhall and Don Mackey, Homestead.

Monessen CIO Players Are Scattering

If Monessen CIO fields a baseball team this season, there will have to be a lot of new faces in the lineup. Reportedly most of last year's standouts are scattering to other Mon Valley teams. Three of the best Unionmen — Walt Cieply, Dean Cheesebrough and Nick Mahalko — are headed for Charleroi . . . Incidentally, the Charleroians are intent upon fielding a solid team. Their popular business manager George Zuraw has been talking baseball for a couple of months already. In the Magic City fold is Larry Papini, the outstanding glove man from California.

Gomez Fails To Report; Sauer Hitting

By UNITED PRESS

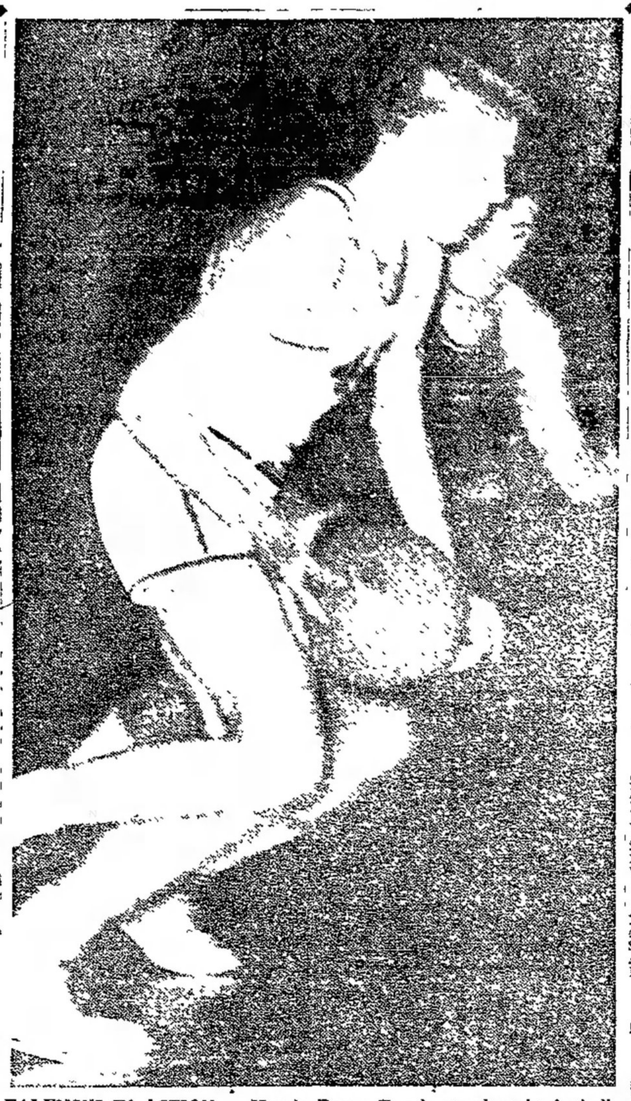
Ruben Gomez' failure to report to the New York Giants' training base renewed speculation today that he may be delt off to the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The Giants made it plain that they are fed up with the Senor's annual spring game of "hide and seek" when club President Horace Stoneham threatened a sliding scale of fines for every day he is absent from the Phoenix, Ariz., training base. Stoneham made that announcement Wednesday after sending Gomez a cable in San Juan, P.R., demanding an explanation.

The Giants, meanwhile, are chortling over the heavy slugging of 38-year old Hank Sauer in their intra-squad games. Sauer, the team's possible No. 4 hitter, walloped his third homer of the spring in Wednesday's game and has knocked in a total of 11 runs in three contests.

Rain and wet grounds hobbled Florida training programs for a fourth straight day, but St. Louis General Manager Frank Lane came up with a new center-field prospect in infielder Eddie Miksis. The former Chicago Cub goes into competition with Chuck Harmon, Bobby Gene Smith and Bobby Del Greco for the position which could make or break the Cardinals' pennant hopes.

At Tucson, Ariz., 20-game winners Early Wynn and Bob Lemon turned in strong three-inning performances in their first spring outings for the Cleveland Indians. Hero of the intra-squad game, however, was Dick Brown, a high school batterymate of Herb Score who hit a two-run seventh-inning homer off rookie Gary Bell to give his squad a 7-6 victory.



FALENSKI IN ACTION — Here's Derry Twp.'s standout basketballer Dick Falenski driving by Bob Boda for a layup in the third period of last night's WPIAL Tournament game. Charleroi won 53-51. Seconds after the final whistle, Falenski was sent sprawling by a punch from Myron Pottios, 205 pound Cougar standout.

Pottios Flattens Foe After Great Tournament Tussle

Charleroi High's basketballers lost prestige in more respects than one as they advanced in the WPIAL Basketball Tournament last night with a 53-51 victory over spunky Derry Twp. before 2,088 fans at the Pitt Field House.

To begin with, the lightly-regarded Trojans considerably deflated the highly-touted Cougars by battling them right down to the final seconds.

Then, too, the Section 5 champs certainly gained no friends when Myron Pottios, who was honored as the valley's finest schoolboy sportsman at the Big Six Banquet, flattened Derry star Dick Falenski after the final whistle with a wicked right cross.

The fist fight — which consisted of just one punch — provided an exciting postscript to an exciting game.

There are conflicting stories as to what provoked the display of temper. The known facts are these:

Hits Lighter Rival

Seconds after the game, Pottios grabbed Falenski by the shirt as he walked toward the dressing room. He swung his much lighter rival around and sent him sprawling with a solid right hand punch.

That brought a mob to the floor but police restored order without further scuffling.

One Charleroi source said Pottios became angered when Falenski refused to shake hands after the game and instead pushed the 205 pound Cougar standout.

But Derry Twp. players told another story. They said Pottios threatened a couple of times during the game to "get" Falenski a 6-2 operator who must weigh 40 pounds less than Pottios.

It's no doubt that the two boys carried on some extra-curricular activities during the game. Falenski was far more artistic and as a result he got away with most of his tricks while Pottios was tagged with four personals.

Best Player

Moreover Falenski was the best player on the floor. He tallied 15 points and did practically all of the Derry rebounding.

Pottios, on the other hand, had a bad night failing to score.

The fight partly obscured a truly fine ball game by both teams. The Trojans, who were supposed to lose by 20 or more points, fought their much bigger rivals on even terms all the way.

Sensational first period shooting enabled Derry to sneak off to an 18-15 lead. In the frame, the Trojans made their first four field goal attempts, three of them fantastic shots. In all, they hit on seven of nine tries.

Derry cooled a little in the second stanza and the poised Charleroians threw their height around to take a 31-17 lead by intermission.

Early in the third period, Charleroi threatened to break the game open, dashing away to a ten point spread.

Refuse to Quit

But the well-coached Derry boys simply refused to quit. They stormed back and pulled to a 44-44 tie at the three quarter mark.

Both teams played cautiously in the final frame.

The Cougars broke the ice first on a fielder by Ollie Pafne, 6-4 center, and they never trailed from then on, although Derry still managed a couple of ties.

Derry muffed its big chance with 22 seconds to go when Falenski missed a layup with his team only a point behind. With eight seconds to go, Falenski couldn't connect on a foul with his club two points behind.

Bob Boda, who made six of seven field goal attempts led the Charleroians with 17 points. Payne chipped in with 12.

For Derry, Jack McHenry was high with 16. He hit on seven of eight attempts from the field.

Statistically, Charleroi made 19 of 49 field goal attempts for 39 per cent shooting. Derry hit on 19 of 41 tries for 46 per cent accuracy.

Charleroi's next tournament foe will be Washington on March 11.

Golden Glove Champ Looks Like Contender

CHICAGO (UP)— Another batter that might be nicknamed "Hurricane" debuted on television Wednesday night, and 17-year-old Ernest Terrell of Chicago could turn into a heavyweight challenger before he reaches voting age.

Terrell stole the show in the final of the 30th annual Western Golden Gloves when he put on a display of perpetual motion to win the light heavyweight title with a technical knockout of Larry Vignarola, Des Moines, Iowa, at 1:55 of the first round.

Another potential pro star also turned in a knockout in the championship card, Jimmy Jackson, a Minnesota medical student on the Minneapolis team. But his hard punching came after the television cameras were off.

Kansas City easily won the team trophy with 17 points and took two individual titles.

Shaw Wins

Joe Shaw decisioned Willie Mogan, Louisville, for the welterweight title, and Tommy Reynolds took the 118 pound title with a win over Manual Elias, Los Angeles.

Los Angeles Mayor Optimistic Over Dodger Move

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Mayor Norris Poulson headed back to Los Angeles today with the news the Brooklyn Dodgers may not be far behind.

"We are optimistic as a result of our visit," said Poulson after a four-hour meeting with Dodger President Walter O'Malley. "We want major league ball in Los Angeles and we want the Dodgers."

Poulson, who met with Brooklyn officials "to test Mr. O'Malley's sincerity," added, "I don't think New York will solve the Dodgers' problem and I believe we will propose a comprehensive program the Dodgers can't resist."

The mayor and his group told O'Malley and his top lieutenants that Los Angeles could supply the Dodgers with a "brand new stadium" seating about 60,000 "one year from the day we get the okay for a move to the coast."

Poulson's group presented the Dodgers with a plan to clear Chavez Ravine, a mile from downtown Los Angeles, at a cost of about $1.5 million and then construct a stadium for about $7 5 million. The experts estimated it would take about 60 days to clear the ravine and approximately 10 months to build the stadium.

Such a stadium, incidentally, would give the Dodgers the largest seating capacity in the National League New York's Polo Grounds, home of the Giants, currently has the largest in the circuit — about 56,000. Brooklyn's Ebbets Field capacity is about 33,000

O'Malley, in a statement accompanying Poulson's, was careful not to say anything that might make Los Angeles and Brooklyn fans think the "deal is closed."

"We got some of the trial balloons out of the air," he said. "At this time there is nothing sufficiently final for our consideration.

Hockey Teams Fighting for Playoff Spots

By UNITED PRESS

The fight for choice playoff positions is all that's left of the 1956-57 American Hockey League season.

The Hershey Bears virtually clinched the last playoff spot by beating cellar-dwelling Springfield, 6-3, in Wednesday night's only action. The win gave the Bears a 12-point margin over fifth-place Buffalo with only seven games remaining.

The four top clubs are only eight points apart and with position being very important in the post-season Calder Cup playoffs, the teams will be at their best coming down the stretch.

Dunc Fisher, ex-New York Ranger, was the offensive star for Hershey with two goals. Lorne Davis, Bobby Solinger, Arnie Kullman and Larry Zeidel also scored for the Bears. Springfield goals were countered by Maurice Collins, Ken Schinkel and Ed Slowinski.

Two Sweeps in GAPA League

Bulldogs blanked Panthers and Irish swept over the Trojans in GAPA League bowling last night

Scoring leaders were George Peters, 177-449; Stan Loulis, 186-Nick Katsuleris, 177-478; and Tony Stupakis, 160-421.

Standings show Bulldogs, 16-11; Trojans, 16-11; Irish, 13-14; Panthers, 9-18.

Bellmar Debuts in Tourney

Bellmar High's basketballers, idle for three weeks, will return to action tonight in the Westmoreland County Tournament.

Coach Jack Flora's Hurricanes will meet New Kensington at the swank Hempfield High floor beginning at 7 p. m.

Other tourney games today and tonight will match East Huntingdon against Bell Avon at 4; Derry Twp. against Ramsay at 5; Latrobe against St Vincent Prep at 6; Jeannette against Vandergrift at 8 and Hurst against Scottdale at 9.

All are Class A tussles with the exception of the opener — a B attraction.

Bellmar's stay in the tourney is expected to be a short one. The Canes are decided underdogs against Ken High

Play Inconsistent

During the season the Canes won eight games while losing 11. They did manage to beat some pretty good teams like Brownsville and Donora However for the most part, their play was inconsistent.

Against New Kensington, Bellmar will have to come up with a good game just to keep the score respectable. The Kensters are supposed to make a strong bid for tournament honors.

Detroit Manager Agrees His Team Is Improved

LAKELAND, Fla., (UP)—Jack Tighe, in his freshman season as a major league manager, agreed today with those who pick the Detroit Tigers as the most improved team in the American League

"I think we will prove it all right," Tighe said. "But we'll have to wait and see if that improvement is good enough to make up the 15 games we finished behind the Yankees last season."

Admitting that beating the Yankees "is going to be quite a project," Tighe declared that the Tiger players "feel that they have a real chance."

Needs Starting Pitcher

"And that's important" he added, "and I'm not going to say anything to make them feel differently."

The plain - speaking Tighe minced no words when he discussed the prospects of the Tigers

"We need a pitcher and a right-handed hitting outfielder" he said. "And we are going to have to find them among our youngsters for the other clubs in the league are a bit leery of dealing with us, figuring we are strong enough as it is"

Right now, he doesn't know whether he will be able to fill those gaps.

Boone At First

Another key to Detroit's chance, he pointed out, was the attempt to convert third baseman Ray Boone into a first baseman. If Boone can make it, Tighe figures it will strengthen his club because Jim Finigan, obtained from the Athletics, then would play third.

If Boone doesn't make the grade at first, he would go back to third, with Finigan battling Frank Bolling and Jack Dittmar for the second base post and two veterans, Ed Robinson and Earl Torgeson, dividing the first base chores.

"If we come up with that pitcher, that right-handed hitting outfielder and Boone can do the job at first, we won't concede an inch to the Yankees or any other club," declared Tighe. "I figure we have a good chance to win the pennant as things are right now, but if we can get those three things our chances will be much better."

Close Wins in Croatian Loop

Diethornes won a pair of games from the Cousins and Ravens took two from the Mihalichs in Grand Parlors League bowling last night

Scoring leaders were Art Palm, 235-630, Sam Havrilak, 229-570, Nick Cullen, 205-536; George Curry, 194-488; and Jim Salay, 209-484.

Standings show Cousins, 16-11, Diethornes, 13-14; Mihalich, 14-13; Ravens, 11-16.

Lazor May Miss NCAA Tourney

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pitt Panthers may be without their all-time high scorer when they start competition in the NCAA basketball tournament next week.

Coach Bob Timmons said Wednesday that center Bob Lazor aggravated a chronic knee ailment in the Panthers' game against Penn State last Saturday.

He said it was uncertain whether Lazor, who has a career total of 1,175 points, would play in next Tuesday's tournament game against Morehead (Ky.) State Teachers at Columbus, Ohio

If Lazor is unable to play, his position will be filled by senior Barry Brautigan, Timmons said.

De Marco Signs to Meet Boardman

BOSTON (UP)—Former welterweight champion Tony DeMarco of Boston and lightweight contender Larry Boardman of Marlboro, Conn., have signed to meet in a 10-round bout at the Boston Garden, March 30. DeMarco agreed not to weigh more than 146 pounds for the bout which will not be televised or broadcast.

Washensky Loses In New York Golden Gloves

NEW YORK (UP) — Heavyweight James Gilliam of Pittsburgh and light-heavyweight Jim Hargett of New York were surprise leaders today of the Eastern Golden Gloves team, which fights the best amateurs of the west at Chicago, March 20.

Gilliam, a 27-year-old Pittsburgh postal clerk, won the eastern title by default before 7,781 at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night when the favored Nathaniel Dixon of New York wasn't permitted to fight in the final because of face cuts suffered earlier in the semi-finals

Hargett, an 18-year-old New York machinist, surprised the experts by outpointing highly touted Ronnie Washensky of Pittsburgh in the final. Some observers had rated Washensky the star of the three-day tourney.

The New York team scored the most points, 22; but as host team it could not accept the team-title, which was given to second-place Pittsburgh, with 15 points.

The new eastern champions include Middleweight Tom Brown, Trenton, N.J.; welterweight Pfc. James Chavis McKeesport, Pa and U.S. Marines; Lightweight Vincent Shomo, New York; featherweight Norman Smith, Washington, bantamweight Don Morrison, Jacksonville, Fla., and flyweight Albert Pell of New York.

Hamner Now Trying Out as a Pitcher

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — With Granny Hamner today it's a matter of control — of the nerves, the heart and the fast ball.

Granny at the age of 30 is trying to carve out a new career in the major leagues. After nine years as a regular infielder with the Philadelphia Phillies a soreness in the "extra arm" ruined his stretch and he's trying to make it as a pitcher.

"I fear the worst and hope for the best," he says.

The odds, strangely enough, are both with him and against him. Men with strong throwing arms have made it before. Made it big, too. But, strangely enough, those who were successful all switched at age 26.

Look at the classic examples: Bucky Walters, Bob Lemon, Saul Rogovin and Jack Harshman. They all were four years younger than Hamner when they made the leap and those four years could spell the difference.

Could Be Tragic

Hamner's could be a tragic case. One of the aging "Whiz Kids" who carried the Phillies to their pennant in 1950, he pulled a tendon in his non-throwing arm two years ago. It failed to respond to treatment and he went under the knife in November of 1955. But the arm never recovered.

"It didn't bother my throwing he explains. "But I couldn't swing at the plate any more and I couldn't stretch far and low with my glove hand"

Last season he hit only .224 Meanwhile, to his dismay, balls he used to come up with were slipping under his glove or eluding his desperate lunge. But the sharp eyes of Coach Benny Bengough gave him a chance at a new career.

Bengough had noticed previously that the first basemen always had trouble handling Hamner's throws. The reason, on investigation, proved to be the fact that Granny threw a ball which "moved."

His throws to first hopped or sailed.

"It looks like it's pitching or nothing for me," Hamner admits today. "Learning control is the big thing and I seem to be doing pretty well with a fast ball, a slider and a knuckler. But I also have to admit that my curve ball isn't too good."

But he's trying, with the desperation of a man who has no place else to go.

Vessels to Quit Pro Football

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Carroll Rosenbloom, Baltimore Colts president, cried "say it ain't so, Billy" today when informed former Oklahoma All-America halfback Billy Vessels had decided to quit pro football for a business career.

Mackle Co., a Miami construction and real estate firm, announced Wednesday it had hired Vessels "on a full time basis."

Rosenbloom, when he learned Vessels may give up football, said the Colts would do everything in their power to get him to change his mind

Vessels played Canadian pro football in 1953 and service football for two years before joining the Colts last season.

Kansas Goes to NCAA; Bradley, Utah Accept Bids to NIT Show

By UNITED PRESS

Kansas, the nation's No. 2 basketball team, rode the sky-high shoulders of (Wilt The Stilt) Chamberlain into a berth in the NCAA tournament today and tonight North Carolina, the No. 1 team, opens its bid for a similar berth.

Utah and Bradley, meanwhile, accepted bids to the National Invitation Tournament — completing the 12-team field for that carnival starting in New York's Madison Square Garden, March 16.

Kansas landed its spot in the NCAA when it clinched the Big Seven Conference championship Wednesday night with a 64-57 triumph over runner-up Kansas State as Chamberlain, just named to the United Press All-America team, led the way with 24 points. The win gave Kansas a 10-1 league record with only one game left to play.

Jayhawks Meet SMU

It also sets up what should be one of the season's very best matches—Kansas (No. 2) against Southern Methodist, the No. 4 team, in an NCAA tourney game at Dallas, March 15

Kansas was the 20th team to gain an NCAA berth The three remaining berths are reserved for the champions of the Ivy League, Atlantic Coast Conference, and Southern Conference.

Yale clinched at least a tie for the Ivy League crown Wednesday night by beating Pennsylvania, 60-54, as Larry Downs set the pace with 21 points and Ed Robinson added 12 points and 21 rebounds.

North Carolina, with a 24-0 record, won the regular-season ACC championship but must win the league tourney starting tonight at Raleigh, N. C., to gain an NCAA berth. The heavily-favored Tar Heels face Clemson (7-16) in their first-round game. Other first-rounders are Duke-South Carolina, Maryland - Virginia, and North Carolina State-Wake Forest.

Wilt's Average Drops

West Virginia, regular season champ of the Southern Conference, with a perfect league mark, opens a similar tourney-for-a-tourney-berth today at Richmond, Va. The Mountaineers (22-4) esnd Hot Rod Hundley against Davidson (7-19) in their opener, while other first-rounders are Furman - Richmond, Washington and Lee - Citadel, and Virginia Tech - William and Mary.

Semi-finals in both tourneys are Friday and finals Saturday. By Saturday midnight the NCAA field will be complete.

Chamberlain's 24 points dropped his season average to 29.05 points per game and left him in fourth place in the major-college scoring race. Chet Forte of Columbia racked up 34 points Wednesday night in an 88-82 loss to Princeton, but remained in fifth place at 28.85 points per game.

Grady Wallace of South Carolina, the leader at 31.0, will be the only contender in action tonight in his game in the ACC tournament.

Dudey Moore Is Not Disappointed

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Duquesne Coach Dudey Moore admitted Wednesday night he did not expect his team to be invited to the National Invitational Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

The NIT's 12-team field was completed Wednesday with the selection of Utah and Bradley.

Moore said he felt "our chances were gone" when St. Peter's of Jersey City, N.J., was picked for the tournament two weeks ago.

"That meant they'd take two conference teams from the West and I already knew that Temple was sure to go if it didn't get the NCAA bid," he said.

The NCAA bid went to Lafayette. Had it gone to Temple which under Middle Atlantic Conference rules would have been required to accept, the NIT invitation may have been made to Duquesne.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear father, Michael Gnora, who died two years ago today, March 7, 1955.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
And still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of the one who once sat there.
It is lonesome here without you, father,
And sad the weary way;
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
Sadly missed by Wife, Children and Grandchildren.

Steel Users Warned Of Inventory Cutbacks

NEW YORK (UP)—Steel users—taking a cue from auto and appliance makers — are "going overboard" on inventory cutbacks, Iron Age said today.

But the authoritative trade publication warned some of these users may be taking a "calculated risk" in overplaying inventory reduction policy, assuming that because some forms of steel are plentiful, this situation will continue throughout the year.

"They may be overlooking one important point," Iron Age said. "Automotive steel inventories have been cut to rock bottom. A turn for the better in new car sales will bring an abrupt upturn in steel demand from the automakers.

"When this happens delivery promises will automatically stretch out — and some users will be caught short."

Iron Age said another factor users must figure on in their reduction policy is that mills are gradually inching back on their production of sheets. More of them are switching to the rolling of light plate on sheet-strip mills.

"This helps out the light plate user," the publication said, "but decreases the availability of sheets. This process could continue indefinitely."

Iron Age said despite the inventory cutbacks, the scramble for available business in sheets, strips and other products in good supply "is becoming more intense."

The publication said mills are using so called tie-in sales techniques in which products in easier supply are sold along with tight supply items to boost sales.

Mills that don't produce a wide variety of products are finding the going "that much tougher."

Iron Age said the easier tone of the steel market is putting the mills back into a position where they can revert to normal maintenance policies.

EUROPE OIL SUPPLY GREATER — Standing before an illustrated map, Stuart P. Coleman, vice president of Standard Oil of New Jersey and chairman of the Middle East emergency committee, which is handling the oil lift to Europe, tells the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee in Washington that Europe will have more oil in the second three months of 1957 than in the first three. The larger supply results from seasonal decline in demand, he said.

Uniontown Bus Firm Asks Boost

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Burke Bus Line has proposed a five cent fare increase effective April 1 for its Uniontown area system.

The firm filed a new schedule with the Public Utility Commission to increase present rates to produce $3,000 more annually. The firm would allow children under six to ride free when accompanied by an adult, and youngsters between six and 12 would ride for half fare.

Adult fares would range between 15 and 25 cents, depending on the distance.

House Bill to Help Aged

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General Assembly has been asked to appropriate $1,000,000 to create and operate a Labor Utilization Foundation to handle the problem of employment for the aged.

A House bill would set up a 12-member foundation composed of four representatives each from industry, labor and private life. The director would receive a $10,500 annual salary.

The foundation would be charged with finding employment opportunities where age is not a hindrance; establish community clinics to research job analysis for industry and labor on hiring older persons; and development of employment for older workers.

The legislation was sponsored by Reps. Adam T. Bower (R-Northumberland), Joseph P. Rigby (R-Allegheny) and GOP Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (McKean).

The three also introduced legislation to appropriate $2,000,000 to establish day recreation centers for elderly people in cities, townships and boroughs; require housing projects to set aside 10 per cent of their space for lease to persons over 65 at minimum rental; and forbid the Commonwealth to force employes to retire because of age.

Tighter Strip Mining Laws In House Bill

HARRISBURG (UP)—A resolution to spell out the need for tighter strip mining laws has been introduced in the General Assembly.

The House resolution asks for a report from the Mines and Mineral Industries Department on the progress made to date on recovery of strip mine land, including the number of acres near cities, boroughs and towns which could be recovered by replanting and reforestation.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Edward Dunn (R-Northumberland), said strip mining operations both anthracite and bituminous open pit operations have left many areas as "eyesores."

The department would report to the House within 60 days after adoption of the resolution on the cost of reclaiming the unrehabilitated areas.

Passport Rejection Expected

WASHINGTON (UP)—The State Department is expected to turn down the request of William Worthy, Baltimore newsman who travelled to Red China, for a renewal of his passport, it was learned today.

Informants also said the State Department already has turned down another application by Philip Potter, Far Eastern correspondent for the Baltimore Sun, for permission to travel to Red China.

Worthy, a reporter for the Baltimore Afro-American, was one of the three Americans who defied a State Department ban against going to Communist China. The others were Edmund Stevens and Phillip Harrington of Look magazine.

Upon his return from Red China Worthy refused to give up his passport as requested by the State Department. About 10 days ago he sent the passport to the department and formally applied for a renewal. The passport expired Monday.

Officially, the State Department says it has not made a final decision on Worthy's application. But moves being made definitely point to a rejection.

'Nuisance' Taxes Repeal Move by GOP Legislator

HARRISBURG (UP)—A House Republican leader said today bipartisan legislation will be sponsored next week in the General Assembly to repeal three so-called "nuisance" taxes on business.

Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (R-McKean) said the three repeal bills would knock out the corporation excise tax, both foreign and domestic; the corporate loan tax, both foreign and domestic; and the stock transfer stamp tax. Their total yield is about $10,000,000.

Gov. George M. Leader asked the Legislature to remove the corporate excise and loans levies in his budget message. The stock transfer measure is a relatively small revenue raiser, bringing in only $250,000 annually.

The Republican-controlled General Assembly also plans to let the manufacturers' exemption to the capital stock tax go into effect on schedule Jan. 1, giving business another $41,500,000 "tax break."

Erie Scandal Testimony Heard

HARRISBURG (UP)—A legislative committee investigating the state Pardons Board was told Wednesday that Gov. George M. Leader sought to obtain public reaction before granting clemency to former Mayor Thomas W. Flatley of Erie, convicted in the Erie bribe scandal in 1954.

The testimony was given by Harold J. Sullivan, former executive editor of the Erie Times before the committee recessed its public hearings until next Wednesday.

Sullivan said Mayor Arthur Gardner of Erie telephoned him the day after his election in November, 1955, to ask what he thought public reaction would be to Flatley's release from prison.

The former newspaperman said he replied he felt the community reaction would be favorable. He quoted Gardner as saying the governor called him primarily to congratulate him on the election results, but also wanted to know about reaction in the Flatley case.

At Erie, Gardner said Sullivan's statement was "unfounded and untrue."

"I have never had any such conversation with Gov. Leader either by telephone or in person," the mayor told newsmen. "For your information, this may be spite. A relative of Sullivan reportedly has made public statements that I caused him to be fired."

The committee also received testimony from Frank R. Hean, board secretary, former Erie County District Attorney Damien McLaughlin, and present District Attorney Herbert J. Johnson, Jr., on the commutations granted Flatley and other former city officials.

After a public hearing in October, 1955, the Pardons Board recommended a reduction of Flatley's 18-month sentence to 11 months and five days. The board originally cut the sentence to one year, but reconsidered after receiving numerous appeals to allow Flatley's release before Christmas.

He was finally released Dec. 15, 1955.

Committee Counsel David R. Kohn, seeking to determine if the reduction was made improperly, then called Sullivan to the stand.

The inquiry took a new turn when McLaughlin, after testifying that he knew of no improper influences brought to bear in the clemency cases, said he had a "strong suspicion" that "political pressure" was applied in another Erie County case.

He said that in November, 1955, an Erie junk dealer, Benjamin Kauffman, convicted of receiving stolen goods, applied for a commutation of his 18-month sentence even before he started serving it.

McLaughlin recounted a meeting with Kauffman's attorney, John M. Wolfert when Wolfert was in Harrisburg to argue the appeal before the Pardons Board. At that time, McLaughlin said Wolfert referred to the premature application and said "I don't know exactly what's going on and I'm not sure I like it."

New Weapons Needed For Battle with TB

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

We have a vaccine to fight off tuberculosis. Yet we can't stage mass inoculation programs in an effort to wipe this once terrifying disease from the face of the earth.

The TB vaccine most widely used today is Bacillus of Calmette and Guerin, or BCG for short. It's made from a stain of bovine tubercle baccilli which are alive but have lost their power to produce progressive disease through long years of culturing and reculturing.

BCG is helpful, for it provides substantial protection, but not absolute protection. And we can't predict just how long a dose of the vaccine will protect a person.

After numerous tests, some doctors now seem to think that the use of BCG in the general population would not be effective in the United States.

For one thing, the vaccine is given only to persons who have not been infected. Right away this would eliminate one-third of our population since tuberculin tests of this number would prove positive.

It's from these positive cases that most of our new cases will come in the next few years. The only cases which BCG can prevent are those resulting from new infections.

Testing our entire population of some 167,000,000 would probably turn up about 112,000,000 persons who could be vaccinated with BCG. Yet even if we vaccinated all of these persons and all the newborn babies, only about eight percent of new TB cases would be prevented in the first five years.

Testing and vaccinating two-thirds of the population and then repeating the whole operation about four times during a 20-year period would be quite a job.

At present we use BCG chiefly for protecting persons constantly exposed to TB infection, such as doctors, nurses and patients and employes in certain institutions.

The search for a better vaccine, however, continues.

A new vaccine has been developed from an avirulent strain of human tubercle baccilli which may produce better immunity. It hasn't been tested on humans as yet.

Question and Answer

N. L.: What is the difference between sterilizing and disinfecting?

Answer: Sterilization destroys all bacterial life, disinfection does not necessarily destroy all bacteria, only those that are infectious or harmful.

Appeals Court Dismisses Suit Over Channel 11

WASHINGTON (UP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals has dismissed on request of both parties a lawsuit over TV channel 11 in Pittsburgh which involved Telecasting, Inc., and WWSW, Inc.

The companies dropped the suit after reaching an out-of-court agreement last month. Under the contract, Telecasting— which now operates WENS on channel 16— is selling its transmitter and land to WWSW for $500,000.

Telecasting took the dispute to court after its application to shift from channel 16 to 11 had been denied by the Federal Communications Commission on the ground that channel 11 had already been awarded to WWSW. The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette controls WWSW. The end of the litigation means WWSW can start contructing its studio building and transmitter, although the FCC has still to act on a request for additional height and power.

Commission action is expected within a few weeks. But WWSW could go on the air under its present permit pending approval of the expanded facilities.
